

Vanessa Braun, working at COM-IT , a company offering IT-classes to children in elementary school:

"My work started at 8:30 am. I finished typing the last business cards in the Excel table and began to write the school ranking of the schools in London. I also had some very nice chats with my colleagues and in the afternoon, I went with them to a school and held a 50-minute programming lesson for the juniors.

Today was also Christina's birthday and our host mother made a special meal and also warm chocolate cake with sauce and vanilla icecream. It was so delicious."
