

Devinne Crawford, who is working at "Nexus Fostering", a well-established and highly regarded fostering agency:

"I worked from 9:30 AM until 5:00 PM. The company is currently working on a huge project. All of the information in their system has to be transferred from their old server to the new one. So far I have transferred bank and payroll information, contact information, and data for tax purposes. My supervisor often tells me how much she appreciates my help, and all of the employees really make me feel like part of the team.

The highlight of the day was that two sets of siblings were placed in foster families. We are alerted by a bell in the office whenever it happens, and everyone claps to celebrate. I really enjoy helping out a company that works for such a great cause."
