

Christian Kaufmann, working at Elliott and Co Estate Agents:

"Monday and Tuesday were the first 2 days at my new work placement and so far, it has been great. My co-workers are very friendly and communicative. My supervisor is Hristo, but everyone at work just calls him Chris, which can lead to some very confusing moments since most of my friends also just call me Chris. My first task in the new company was to go out with Lorenzo to distribute leaflets, which took us about 2 hours during which we mainly talked about football and cars. Some of the other tasks include taking phone calls, conducting market research and printing or copying documents. I am really looking forward to the rest of the week, but I am also quite sad that I only get to stay at my new workplace for 3 more days."
