

Monika Le, enjoying her leisure time at Camden Market:

"Before returning to Germany I really wanted to visit Camden Market again. I met a friend at Harrow and Wealdstone Station. The Overground took us to our desired destination. I really thought that people would be at home, watching TV, but we were welcomed by a big crowd. People were playing music in the street and every shop was filled with tourists as well as locals. I took lots of photos and bombarded my mom with them.

Have you ever heard of "Bubble Waffles"? Most people know them from Instagram or Facebook. I really wanted to try this sweet temptation so I bought one. It was stuffed with strawberries and raspberries and topped with whipped cream and Nutella. In the evening, we went through the streets of Chinatown and admired the delicious roasted Beijing-Ducks".
