

Vanessa Scheider, working for the travel agency "Almont Travel" in London:

"At first, it was really difficult to speak English and it didn't sound very good but now I'm recognizing that it's becoming better and more fluent. I'm so glad that I have taken advantage of this opportunity and I'm also glad that I'm now used to London! At the beginning, we were on the wrong bus or Tube approximately 5 times as everything was so confusing, but now it's actually quite easy.

On the fourth day of my work placement, the other intern wasn't in the office so I was alone with my colleagues. I had to register flights into a computer system and go to the Russia embassy on my own. I was really nervous that I wouldn't be able to find the embassy but luckily I succeeded. Altogether, the day was quite interesting."
